What they say...

Ever have an idea that connected to your vision or longtime goals, but thought, "That's too wild...I could never do that"? Or maybe, "Where would I even start?" It is easier than you think to accomplish extraordinary goals.

It doesn't matter if your crazy idea is for you, the team you manage, or your entire organization as the key elements of success are the same. Achieving EPIC Performances in both career and life are quite attainable with the right game plan.

Bryan Gillette has done this throughout his life and pushed his mind and body beyond what many would consider to be normal limits. This included cycling 4,000 miles across the U.S.A. in 50 days, running 205 miles around Lake Tahoe in 76 ½ hours or cycling 300 miles in one day. He has learned that our mind and body can be pushed much further than we think.

In one of his engaging and motivational presentations, you will learn how to Reach Your Peak through E.P.I.C. Performances by using this five-step plan:

E nvision your future work and personal goals
P lan to make those goals a reality
I terate your plan to work out the kinks
C ollaborate with others and learn from experts
Perform to your plan to cross the finish line

Bryan facilitates leadership offsites, coaches leaders to reach their peak, and shares the lessons he has learned about how to accomplish extraordinary goals either at work or home.

Contact Bryan about coaching your leaders, inspiring your employees, or facilitating your leadership retreats.
